

We have been using Global Voices for about a year now. We came across them when looking for a one stop shop solution for all our interpreting and translation needs. Prior to Global we would have 100's of invoices to process on a monthly basis, we now have just 6 – one for each region we cover. From the set up of the account, to the general day to day running we have never had a negative word to say about our experience with Global. From our experience they genuinely cannot do enough to help and support us with whatever we need – whether this be individual translation requests, to amending the online portal to better suit the needs and requirements of our reporting. Using Global Voices has changed the running of our service for the better and we hope to be working with Global Voices for many years to come.
