

Background

FIM CISL, the most significant industrial trade union and industrial complex in Italy faced a vital challenge – initiating a Europe-wide collaboration on the green transition of transportation and workers' rights in this transformative period. Global Voices responded adeptly, deploying a team of expert interpreters fluent in Italian, Turkish, Hungarian, French and English. These interpreters were pivotal in bridging language barriers during the conference. By providing seamless interpretation services, we allowed the trade union to collaborate effectively with counterparts across Europe. This collaboration facilitated a roundtable discussion on green transition and workers' rights, fostering essential discussions on a European scale.

Challenge

Facilitate communication among multiple languages, including Italian, Hungarian and French during a crucial conference.

Provide interpretation services that would enable productive discussions and collaboration.
